Dear Charles Collings:

December 21, 2009

Merry Christmas. You are getting up there in years. 84 and counting. Wasn't that the same number of suppliers Charles Nordby caught stealing from Raley's back in the early '70s? How would you know? You were blind to it all. You and Raley's turned out to be bigger thieves than them!

So, do you feel repentant of the crimes you have committed against Nordby? Or, are you too arrogant? Hey, we picked apart the history book about Raley's you helped put together. You should feel real ashamed about that too.

Collings, the second biggest mistake you made in your life was assisting Raley's in publishing that fraudulent history book. The biggest mistake you made was cheating my dad!

"He was good at being a thief and a fraud."

Will this be your legacy?

Sincerely, Frank Nordby
