The Art of Cleansing Time

Seminar with Arthur Burk in Switzerland

In many cases, the natural is a reflection of the dynamics that we cannot see in the spiritual realm. This is quite common in the cultures of the world. Often what we see in the culture is a toxic unredeemed portrayal of what God placed there originally.

Consider New York City. It was targeted by Al Qaeda because it represents the most distilled essence of America's economic exploitation of the world. "Wall Street" is, at present, quite a toxic presence in the world.

However, God was there first and He designed it to be one of the premier gift of Giving cities in the world. We cannot even imagine what the world would be like with New York City leading the economies of the world with a life giving flow that is larger than the current toxicity.

Consider the diamonds which God deposited in extraordinary density in South Africa. The diamond is a symbol in Scripture of the holiness of God in our midst – the shekinah glory of God manifest visibly.

Today South Africa is more known for corruption than for holiness. However, if you look at the major moves of God anywhere in the world in the last 50 years, you will find a disproportionate number of South Africans who have jumped on a plane to go there and experience the glory of God first hand.

Why? Because they know in their spirit that this is part of their birthright and they are seeking anything, anywhere that will bring the glory of God's holiness to their nation.

So what about Switzerland? Where does your culture give us a clue about the spiritual realities that are not readily seen? There are many clues, but one that stands out is the Swiss identification with precision watches.

Unlike the previous two examples, the Swiss watch industry is not toxic to the culture or the world. It is, however, marked by an obsession for precision. Whether it is developing jeweled watch movements or dividing time into smaller and smaller increments with increasing accuracy, the Swiss have led the world in accurate time keeping?

So what?

It is my belief that this is a representation of the finger print of God on your nation. You carry a divine call regarding precision timing in the spiritual realm.

What does that mean on a practical level? We don't know yet, but that does not keep us from moving toward it with careful strategy. This seminar will begin exploring the spiritual dynamics of time.

The first concept we must master is the sanctification of time. Time is the first thing that God made holy of all of creation. Scripture is clear about the devil's desire to defile time. Christians in general -- and the Swiss in particular -- have a responsibility to cleanse time where it has been defiled.

Arthur Burk will provide you with specific tools which will enable you to move toward your nation's birthright.
