Hope ^{VS} Hype

What does it take to win a war?

In the days after 9/11 America was full of passion and ready to wreck vengeance on the perpetrators. Today, nearly ten years later, we are mired in two brutal wars and the national zeal for war is only a distant memory.

Zeal does not win most wars. It takes skilled leadership, exceptional strategy and the right resources at the right place.

The same is true for social transformation.

For 30 years now we have had revolving waves of passion sweep through the American church, eloquently painting a picture of what your city or your nation could look like with the devil routed and the King enthroned.

The pictures are compelling and the passion rises, but when we return to the reality of our daily life, it feels as though we are trying to deflect a freight train by threatening the caboose with a BB gun.

Futility creeps in and devours the fire from the conference. And another fistful of Christians has been effectively inoculated against trying to walk in dominion.

The Starting Right conferences are for you. If your heart ever burned white hot with passion for change, we are ready to EQUIP you. These are not inspirational events filled with "brave new world" speeches.

Rather it is a time of methodically assessing the available resources so that you can weave together a strategy that is sustainable. If you have tried and burned out before, this is the place where you can leverage the spiritual authority you gained in your last attempt and blend it with wiser strategy.

Some of you merely have a strong sense that you are supposed to do something, somewhere. Others have the precise calling from 30 years ago that you have never been able to move toward implementing. Some will have a tiny group that has been faithfully fighting with no measurable results.

No matter where you are in the sequence, the Starting Right conferences will position you to take the next steps with confidence and with skill, so that there is a large return on investment for the time and effort you bring to the table.

Call Susan at 714-224-0126 if you are still not sure this is for you.

New Office Hours

For about a year we were short staffed and therefore we only took phone calls for a few hours a day. Now, thanks to Susan's coming in early each day, we can offer you quality phone service from 6:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Pacific time, five days a week.

You can place orders, ask about events or get help figuring out where your favorite file is hiding on the website. 714-224-0126.

One-Time Teleconferences

Question: what is bigger than a Mini Cooper, smaller than a Hummer, classier than a Chevy, cheaper than a Lincoln and a much better value than ocean front property in Louisiana?

Answer: A teleconference about really important things you won't find on Oprah.

There is one on portals in the land and how they affect you.

Or try the one on how to tell the difference between your soul and your spirit.

What about your roots? In this mobile, electronically connected culture, do roots matter, and can you really actually ever have roots?

These and other priceless topics will be explored in two-hour teleconferences with Megan Caldecourt. Each one is offered only once, so register quickly for this gourmet feast.

Love & Legitimacy Seminars

Have you listened to our Seven Curses teaching, done all the renunciations and still seen no change in your finances?

You are not alone.

The key to financial victory comes from understanding the root legitimacy issues which empower the curses. When the legitimacy lies are exposed, you can begin to build a new value system based on proper legitimacy with God, and out of that will come a different lifestyle which will result in financial freedom.

Let's take that from the top again.

- 1) Expose the legitimacy lies in your life and your family line.
- 2) Learn to walk in real legitimacy in your relationship with God.
- 3) Make adjustments to your life style based on the new values.
- 4) See the fruit of that in changes in your finances.

At the end of the day, financial problems are generally a fruit issue, and we have to explore the root deceptions relative to how we receive our sense of legitimacy if we want financial freedom.

Megan Caldecourt is doing three live seminars on the subject of our core legitimacy structures. Visit our Events page to sign up.

Workshop Videos

Due to the fact that most people cannot come to the workshops we have been holding in South Carolina and California, we experimented with video taping the workshops in Millbrae.

We had no fancy lights, no microphones for the people in the audience and no second camera for cut away shots. Even though it was a very low budget project with the occasional participant walking in front of the camera, it still captured the essence of the workshop so we are in the process of making it available through the Video Library.

We had some initial compatibility issues as Megan cobbled together a Microsoft/Mac/Adobe software combination of varying ages. It took a little doing, but eventually she and Paul mustered the best of their combined Mercy gifts and managed to get all the little rascals reconciled.

Then Paul and Elaine raced through their initial learning curve of recording, editing, formatting, encoding and eventually uploading the video to that strange thing called cyberspace.

Keep an eye on "New Releases" on our website and we will let you know when these are uploaded to the Video Library. They will be included at no extra charge.

Time and Land Workshops

Demonic power can be accessed through many means. Three of the more popular are through community, time and land. Each one of these alone has potential.

When a group of people come together and combine their wills to pursue spiritual darkness, there is a certain amount of power available to them.

When an individual goes to defiled land to connect with spiritual darkness, this also works.

And when someone pursues spiritual darkness on a specific day that is also effective.

Now imagine Stonehenge on Halloween night. You have a group of people, on defiled land, on a defiled day. The synergy of combining all three sources of defilement massively increases the amount of power that can be accessed at one time.

The same works for the pursuit of God. A cursory look at Scripture shows God directing His people to worship Him in groups, on sanctified land, on sanctified days. Today there is a huge number of people doing pilgrimages to anointed land. This is certainly commendable, but we shouldn't have to wait until there is an event to experience that synergy.

We can and should know how to cleanse land and time in such a way as to hugely enhance our own spiritual pilgrimage wherever we are.

In May and June, Arthur will be presenting two workshops that are closely related. The first is about how to sanctify time. There will be extensive teaching on how to determine where the points of defiled time are in your family line, as well as teaching on how to sanctify time for yourself individually and for the nation as a whole.

In June, the companion teaching will be about cleansing land. Again, there will be some new teaching on identifying and removing defilement from the land, but the primary focus will be on how we can make the land rich in spiritual deposits.

When we bring both time and land into a high degree of holiness, it will materially affect our ability to connect with God.

You may register for these workshops by calling Susan at 714-224-0126 or by registering online at www.PlumblinMinistries.com. Click on the Events button to select your date and location. Preregistration closes about three days before the event and there will be no registration or substitutions at the door.

In circles of social entrepreneurs it is a badge of honor to be called “unreasonable.” Of course it is impossible to change the world. Of course it is ludicrous to expect to do it without credentials and resources. Of course it is preposterous to imagine the powers that be ever tolerating their world being turned topsy turvy on the way to being made better.

That is precisely why it takes a social entrepreneur to do it. They are a breed apart!

The book, “The Power of Unreasonable People” by Elkinnton and Hartigan is one of the classics on the modern social entrepreneur. In their preface they list quite a number of ways in which the social entrepreneur is unreasonable, ending with the simple line, social entrepreneurs “...are unreasonable because they are...well, unreasonable.”

These are the people who will be at the June Starting Right conferences. They have an idea that should have died a hundred times and it just won't.

For some, the idea is crystal clear, thoroughly outlined, and precise in every detail. For others there is simply a vague sense that they belong in the fray in a particular sector of society. On both extremes and all along the spectrum between the extremes, there is an idea that just won't go away.

Some have tried valiantly, multiple times, over the last three decades to execute their vision, only to have each attempt sputter and run out of momentum discouragingly quickly. Others have never even tried to start because the starting line seems like a mirage that moves away from them as often as they move toward it.

Some have huge leadership credentials and others are extraordinary primarily for their ordinariness. Some have immense formal education, others are autodidacts. Some have succeeded well in the traditional marketplace, others have never gotten their footing in the nine to five rat race.

None of those things matter. The race does not go to the mighty, or educated, or skilled or clever. It goes to the tenacious.

Elkinnton's book profiles quite a number of ordinary people who should not have made any kind of impact in their culture, except for the fact that they had an idea that wouldn't die. They were unreasonable.

So we welcome to Oklahoma City and Minneapolis you bruised, scarred, weary, unreasonable people who refuse to lay down your idea for change. Your tenacity is your most important credential.

People are coming from Europe, Africa, North and South America and Australia. They bring wildly different ideas and skill sets. The only common denominator is that they are all wonderfully unreasonable.
