able to get into that case? A window would pop up that says someone else is editing the case and you could open it read-only. Then the 3 options would be:

1. Go to that person and ask them to get out of the case.
2. Allow the other users to discard the session making it available to all other users to edit.
3. Grant a system administrator to discard the session making it available to all other users to edit.
