

fur

From: "fur" <fur@raleysExposed.com>
To: <info@ccoonline.cc>
Sent: Friday, March 09, 2012 7:00 AM
Subject: My reward was tripled

Hello. I just wanted to say that I tripled my reward on my website for the second newspaper article that Glen Cole mentioned in his message he gave about a man named Floyd Mullin he chased down a dark street in Washington. It was $300 but now since Cole has passed away I have increased that reward to $900 to the first person who sends to me that article. That newspaper article has now become more valuable to me. The money is supposed to be for the two newspaper articles that Cole mentioned in his message, but, Cole has already sent to me one of the articles in question so now someone can make $900 by just sending me the second article.

I think this is a great way for someone at the CCC to earn some extra tithing money. Or, Rick Cole can be the first to send me that second article and bring in some extra spending money for some home improvements he has wanted to make. Anyway, just wanted to let you fine folks there at the CCC know about my tripling of the reward for the article.

Also, I have spent some time creating some additional graphic animations for my new page www.raleysExposed.com/glen_cole_heaven as you can see below

"He loved God and he loved life and he loved God," said Johnston of Bayside Church. "I'm sure the first thing he said when he got to heaven is, 'Where's the golf course?'"

A quote from Ray Johnston, source: The Sacramento Bee, February 14, 2012

OK Johnston, which heaven did Glen Cole end up going to?
The religious elite or the average folk?

And one additional remark to Johnston:
I hope Cole can get past "Heaven Security" because Charles Nordby is in charge of that department!

Is Earth really just a golf ball spinning around in the Universe?

Anything is possible.

Influential Sacramento-area pastor Glen Cole dies - Sacramento News - Local

The Bee article to the left uses the word "influential" in its headline. Down at the bottom of this page is this same image that opens up this article in a pdf format when clicking on the image.

It just seems to me that if Cole was that influential he would have been able to use that influence to influence his buddy Chuck Collings to publicly repent for defrauding and cheating Charles Nordby. But that never happened.

What did happen though, was that it turns out Collings was influential too and was able to influence his buddy Cole to call Nordby a liar and a slanderer.

Over to the left is an email I received from a person thinking that I have slandered Glen Cole.

I don't understand how I am slandering Cole, so I sent back this response to this individual.

This is very similar to Cole's way of thinking. It was acceptable for him to publicly announce Floyd-

-Mullin as a thief from years ago, yet according to Cole, it wasn't acceptable for Charles Nordby to publicly announce that Cole's buddy Chuck Collings was not only a fraud and thief from years ago but is still one today.